American Defense society in the Hippodrome last night. It was read by Henry C. Quimby, a trustee of the society, because of the colonel's indisposition.

"I cannot be with you, and so all I can do is wish you Godspeed," the message said.

"There must be no sagging back in the fight for Americanism, merely because the war is over. There are plenty of persons who have already made the assertion that they believe the American people have a short memory and that they intend to revive all the foreign association, which most directly interfere with the complete Americanization of our people."

"There can be no divided allegiance here. Any man who says he is an American, but something else also, isn't an American at all. We have but one flag, and this excludes the red flag, which symbolizes all wars against liberty and civilization just as much as it excludes any foreign flag of a nation to which we are hostile."

"We have room for but one language here, and that is the English language, for we intend to see that the crucible turns our people out as Americans, of American nationality, and not as dwellers in a polyglot boarding house; and we have room for but one soul loyalty, and that is loyalty to the American people."

SENDS BULLETS AFTER BURGLARS

Patrolman Mulder Surprises Men at Work on Morgan Pharmacy

While patrolling his beat last night, Patrolman Mulder surprised two men who were entering the drug store of Dale Morgan at 1425 Colt avenue, N. E. Mulder fired four shots at the men, who escaped by running through an alley.

Several hours later Police Sergeant Wilson saw Frank Cook, 409 Eighth street, N. W., and Harold Tinker, a sailor, 919 Bridge street, N. W., at Lexington avenue and Bridge street, N. W. They failed to explain why they were out so early in the morning and were arrested on suspicion for the Morgan job.

They waived examination in police court when arraigned, and were held to the superior court under $1,000 bonds.

Tinker told Police Judge Hess he was home on a furlough.

TO SEND HOME ABOUT 100,000

Washington, Jan. 6.—General Pershing has notified the war department that he expects before March 1 to assign to "early convoy" 100,000 combat troops in addition to the 375,000 troops now on the priority list.

With tonnage now in sight, the war department expected to bring home 200,000 troops this month, and to maintain that rate hereafter.

In these circumstances the 30th, 31st and 91st divisions and the second corps headquarters, the latest units on the priority list, should be on the seas before March 1.

Colonel Roosevelt retired at 12 o'clock last night feeling much better. At 4:15 o'clock this morning he simply ceased to breathe. Death was caused probably by a pulmonary embolism."

Roosevelt returned home Christmas day from Roosevelt hospital, where he had been ill for some time with sciatica.

Immediately after he died his son, Archie Roosevelt, who is in Boston, was notified. He started for home at once.

The house at Sagamore Hill was closed and nobody allowed to enter the grounds after the colonel died. It was stated that physicians would issue an official announcement later in the day.

Blood Clot in Artery

Pulmonary embolism, Dr. Fallor explained, is a blood clot upon one of the arteries of the lungs.

The funeral will be Wednesday from Christ Episcopal church, Oyster Bay. The Rev. Dr. George Tallmadge will officiate, and interment will be in the Young Memorial cemetery at Oyster Bay Cove.

At the time of the death, the only persons in the house at Sagamore Hill were Colonel Roosevelt, his wife and the servants.

Colonel Roosevelt spent Sunday evening reading, conversing with Mrs. Roosevelt and chatting with Dr. Fallor, who found him apparently much improved and in excellent spirits. He also dictated a number of letters. Despite his recent return from the hospital, where he was confined for weeks by an attack of sciatica, with painful complications, he had lost none of his old-time vigor. When Dr. Fallor left him, Roosevelt was laughing and called "goodnight" most cheerfully.

Mrs. Roosevelt Was Called

At midnight he retired. Mrs. Roosevelt sat with him for a while, then as he fell asleep, she went to her room. At 4:15 a. m., the man servant became alarmed and called the nurse. There was nothing that could be done. Roosevelt was dead.

Mrs. Roosevelt was called. She took the shock bravely. Dr. Fallor arrived a few minutes later. Roosevelt lay as if still sleeping. He did not move in the bed as he died, but lay just as he was when his wife stepped out of the room shortly after midnight.

Had Operation Recently

Colonel Roosevelt was 60 years old, having been born in New York Oct. 27, 1858. He was the twenty-sixth president of the United States, having succeeded to the presidency on the death of William McKinley, who was shot and killed at Buffalo, N. Y. His health had not been very good for some time. In fact, he had left the Roosevelt hospital only a short time ago, and had gone home.

Shortly before that he had undergone an operation at the hospital, and was practically deaf as a result of it.

The life of the former president is one of the most brilliant chapters in American history. Loved and admired in some quarters, he succeeded, however, in acquiring the enmity of many prominent men, and his later life was filled with strife on one hand and preparation for even more strenuous public life on the other. It was popularly believed, in fact, that Roosevelt would make an effort to become president again at the next national election, although no expression of any kind on the subject had come from him.

Gave Lodge His Support

The most recent great public effort of Roosevelt came at the last republican national convention, when, after the republicans had refused to nominate him, he turned his strength to Senator Lodge. The latter, however, failed of nomination, and Charles E. Hughes was named to oppose President Wilson. Hughes then gained full support of Colonel Roosevelt. Roosevelt's war record was
