

GAS SUPPLY AMPLE FOR NORMAL NEEDS OF DALLAS HOMES

With two unbroken lines from the Fox field and one from the Petrolia field, the gas supply is ample to care for all of the normal needs of Dallas and other cities supplied by the Lone Star Company. H. C. Morris, manager of the Dallas Gas Company, was advised Tuesday morning.

Two lines from the Keyes field and one from the Fox field are out at the point where the pipes cross the Red River. These will be repaired as soon as possible, and there will be sufficient gas here unless a sudden cold wave is experienced.

"The weather man, however, has forecasted warmer weather immediately ahead and so we need not worry at present," Mr. Morris declared. "The line will be repaired within a few days."

The break in the gas mains occurred when the Red River was swollen by the recent rains to a width of nearly two miles. The high point in the river has been reached and the water is gradually receding.

1 DEAD, 4 INJURED RESULT OF GRADE CROSSING SMASH

Genevieve Wills Killed When Engine Hits Auto Her Mother Was Driving.

A little girl was killed and four other people seriously injured in a collision between an incoming Santa Fe passenger train and a large automobile at the Fitzhugh avenue crossing at 8:45 o'clock Monday night. The automobile, driven by Mrs. H. G. Wills, 761 Cristler street, was caught on the pilot of the locomotive and dragged a distance of fifty feet before Engineer John Hopkins brought the train to a stop.

Genevieve Wills, 11 years old, was killed instantly, her mother, Mrs. H. G. Wills; a sister, Cecil, 18; a brother, Herbert, 14, and Frank Spangler, 14, were all seriously hurt. Frank Spangler and Herbert Wills were picked up in an unconscious condition and little hope is entertained for the recovery of Spangler.

Mrs. Wills sustained lacerations on the face and shoulders and both legs were broken. Her daughter, Cecil, was badly bruised on the body and her face was lacerated. Herbert Wills is suffering from a slight concussion of the brain and is severely bruised on the body and legs. Spangler's chest was crushed and he is thought to be seriously injured internally. He, also, is suffering from concussion of the brain and, according to last reports received from the hospital, has not regained consciousness. He is being attend by Dr. Hackler, while Drs. Roseer and Webb are attending the others.

Mrs. Wills said that she approached the crossing slowly but did not hear the train. Her attention was suddenly called to the glare of the locomotive headlight, a shrill blast of the whistle and the grinding noise of the brake shoes against the coach wheels as the engineer applied the emergency air-brakes. An instant later the crash came.

H. G. Wills, husband of Mrs. Wills, left Dallas Monday morning for Danville, Ill. A telegram was sent to him Monday night en route to his destination, and he is expected to return to the city some time Tuesday.

Funeral arrangements for Genevieve Wills will not be announced until after the arrival of her father and brother, Dudley.

Teachers' Heroic Work Saves Lives of Orphans

Due to the heroic work of the teachers at the Buckner Orphans' Home, (thinks Dr. R. C. Buckner, the seriousness of the influenza epidemic at the home is no worse than it was. Most of the children have now reached the convalescent period. At present there are about 100 of the boys and 120 of the girls still confined to the beds. There are no cases in the nursery, where there are forty children under 5 years of age. In the cottage for the aged there are also no cases. In the hospital, where there are four cases, four have developed pneumonia. One death Monday makes three in all among the children. All of these had been invalids. The epidemic is believed to be about ended. "The people have been very kind to us," Dr. Buckner says.
