MISS ELLEN E. MOYNIHAN, OF THE CATHOLIC WOMANS CLUB CALLS MEETING OF MEMBERS TO PLAN AID FOR CITY'S STRICKEN HOMES

Miss Ellen E. Moynihan, of the Catholic women's club, has called a meeting for this afternoon of club members, who wish to do their bit in this time of trouble and help fight the epidemic that is thinning out the city's population. Miss Moynihan, with some workers who was able to communicate with last night, will be at the clubhouse this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will cook nourishing food which will be called in to the needy sick, who have no aid, and where in many cases, every member of the family is affected with the disease. The kitchen at the clubhouse on Laurel street will be used for this purpose and every requisite for cooking being in the club kitchen, will enable the members to administer temporary aid.

There will be a general meeting of club members at 8.30, and not only club members but all women who wish to do something at the present time to help fight the epidemic, are asked to be at the clubhouse this afternoon at 8.30. The early workers, who will call at 2 o'clock, will prepare what food they can, and will then seek some method of delivering it. The work is very urgent, the aid who can are asked to respond immediately. Donations of food for the sick, of sheets and pillow cases, towels, and undergarments and night gowns, of all sizes, are asked. Players may be busy at the club. Automobiles to deliver the food and articles will also be needed. Many women may not be able to go to the homes of the sick and administer aid, but may be willing to go to the clubhouse and help in the preparation of food or to sew for the sick. They may call at the club of communicate, with club members.

The work will begin at once, so an early response is asked. Delay may mean many more lives, and sufferers in the congested parts of the city are dying because of lack of proper care and food. Cases have been reported where children have not had food for 16 and 17 hours, because the head of the house is ill, and neighbors are unable to offer any assistance.

BOARD OF HEALTH SANCTIONS MILITARY CONCERT IN MECHANICS HALL, OCT. 18

Permission, from the board of health has been given for a big military ball and concert in Mechanics hall, the night of Oct. 18, and boys of A Co., 36th machine gun battalion, at Camp Devens, are jubilant over the lifting of the ban for their big time.

Officers who rank high in the 36th infantry, to which the battalion is attached, are on the list of invited guests, and there is much speculation over which one will be called in to lead the grand march that opens the ball at 9 o'clock.

Mayor Pehr G. Holmes, if he is sufficiently recovered to be out, and Mrs. Holmes, will follow, according to military etiquette, and Chief of police George H. Hill will be next in line, for the grand march.

In the military concert that will precede the grand march at 8 o'clock, entertainers from Devens will be in their glory. There are said to be many clever lads in the 36th machine gun battalion, with more than a local reputation as song and dance, monolog and specialty artists. The boys of the program are proud of themselves, and a treat is in store for guests at the ball.

Another big attraction will be the military orchestra of 15 pieces, I. A. Pickett, director. The players have plenty of the latest dance hits in their repertoire, and patrons of the ball are assured that they will provide music with the real military snap.

Worcester girls in Red Cross uniforms will act as usherers, and six military police will be detailed from Devens for the night of the big gathering.

A list of patronesses is being secured by Miss Alice J. Coyne, chairman of the Worcester committee for the military concert and ball, among matrons prominent in the social life of the city.

WOMAN EXPRESSES HER GRATITUDE FOR ENTERTAINMENT AFFORDED AT Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. proved a friendly refuge yesterday to a woman who found time hanging heavily on her hands between trains. She expressed her gratitude to the people in the home like house at 10 Chestnut street after she had enjoyed what the place had to offer. The guests she met there included some who usually pass part of their day at the public library, but found plenty of reading material including the daily papers, in the Y. W. C. A. library.

The piano and the victrola offered musical entertainment for those who like that sort of thing. These instruments were not in a cold parlor like the one she had left when she went from her own home in the morning. The rooms at the Y. W. C. A. were heated, as they must be, since so many young working women are housed there.

Lounges and comfortable chairs, writing desks and other facilities so that she could brush her hair and adjust her veil before leaving, and a telephone, she demonstrated how the necessary restrictions, all were at hand. These things have become so familiar to Worcester women that some have almost forgotten how helpful the institution can be, until a stranger expresses her delight at its many conveniences and comforts.

At the lunch hour a meal that was wholly satisfying was had in the lunch-room downstairs. This meal cost 35 cents and included soup, roast pork, potatoes, turnips, rice and coffee jelly. There was a choice of vegetables and of desserts, as well as a tempting salad.

Signs asking leniency toward the sick were hardly necessary, because the service was prompt. It was a comfortable meal. Opposite her at the little round table sat a woman, confessed from Boston, who made Worcester's sufferings in the epidemic seem small compared with those she described Boston as being with calm courage. There was available the sort of conversation which women will not venture into except at the more private restaurants, because elsewhere they are not certain of the results of conversing with strangers. The Y. W. C. A. was a passport to friendly talk during the meal.

The experience of this woman in a closed-up city was one that gave her an added impression of Worcester and the Y. W. C. A. seems likely to have deserved appreciation from many through her report of the welcome she received there.

WOMEN SAMPLE DELICIOUS CAKES COOKED BY MISS HELEN BELL AITKEN BY ELECTRICITY

Two women, already good looking, were being shown how to add to their beauty by electrical massage at the tea party in the Worcester automobile clubrooms, yesterday, when other visitors dropped in and the kitchen where Miss Helen Bell Aitken is demonstrating the appliances and equipment under the patronage of the Coghlin Electric Co., 259 Main street, was for the moment a beauty parlor. Miss Aitken was a capital hostess. When the whine turned from beauty to utility, she demonstrated how to make a delicious cake, served it and partook of it, with the Worcester women who were her guests, by invitation of John P. Coghlin through The Telegram. Women in twos and threes and groups as well as alone and strictly on business, soon mingled and stoves are costly because of the amount of electricity used," said Miss Aitken, "but they forget that the rate charged for stoves is less than that for lighting. There is a special rate for electricity used in the stoves and I can assure you that electricity as used in this way is at least as cheap as gas."

Another electrical appliance which found much favor was the little stove set on the breakfast table, with plates for broiling, cooking cereals, and even a baking oven ready to be set up if desired. These are also comparatively inexpensive and are used at the breakfast table and enjoy the meal with the family instead of bustling about from stove to table and back again when preparing the meal. These electric hot plates are clean, easily moved about and provide a quiet, hot

MRS. BARRETT WENDALL TO VISIT WORCESTER

Mrs. Barrett Wendall, first chairman of the fourth Liberty loan women's committee, will be in Worcester this forenoon, to visit headquarters, 259 Main street.

City workers are tabulating the returns from the various wards, and Mrs. Wendall, McGrover's team from ward 7 will be here, yesterday forenoon. The full corps of women workers from the wards put in the forenoon checking up the returns. Ward meetings have been held at the beginning of the second week of the campaign, and the women are still holding themselves in readiness for all follow-up work that may devolve on them to do.

West Boylston women are doing their bit and more, with subscriptions still being taken toward doubling their quota. About $4,000 has come in to date. Sturbridge, with Mrs. Ernest Barnes acting as chairman of the woman's town committee, has turned in a subscription list of $10,500 toward the $20,000. The Fliskdale Finishing Co. has started its campaign with an investment of $10,000.

In the weekly reports from Webster, made by Mrs. James A. Lobban, for the woman's committee, there have been 223 subscriptions to the amount of $8,500, on a total quota of $80,000.

The work of the woman of Holden is complete, with the sum of $8000 in subscriptions to their credit, the week ending Oct. 5. Over $100,000 has been subscribed and the quota was only $85,000. Mrs. C. E. Snow is the woman's chairman.

The weekly report from Oxford shows $17,300 in bond subscriptions, on a $100,000 quota, secured by the women of their town chairman, Mrs. David N. Taft.

In Leicester, Mrs. Channing Smith, head of the town's woman's committee, and her workers, have placed $9,200 worth of bonds, or nearly a third of the total quota.

For the week ending Oct. 5, Miss Dorothy Moran and her Shrewsbury woman's committee, report $18,700 in loan pledges.

ST. BERNARDS UNITS TO HELP FIGHT EPIDEMIC

In response to the appeal for help for the Worcester society for district nursing, St. Bernard unit, Catholic women's war service council, has volunteered to help. Mrs. C. F. Monahan will open her home, 15 Lincoln street for women of the unit to sew. A fund has already been started and bedding towels and other necessary articles needed for the sick will be given to the district nurses to use for their needy patients.

THEATER MANAGER SAYS HE LOSES BY SHORT NOTICE

"We have to make our preparations for entertaining the patrons of the Grand theater before Friday, each week, so that the late closing notice that we receive makes it a difficult proposition for us," said manager George J. Eimore yesterday, speaking of the ready obedience of the theatrical managers to the suggestion of the board of health for closing the theaters. Mr. Eimore told of the money losses that the late notice meant to the theatrical people and of the inconvenience that they had to endure. The spirit of his remarks was not one of complaint, but more of suggestion. While realizing that the board cannot always give as early a notice as it would wish, and that its members hold out as long as possible against giving the order, because they wish to be helpful, rather than hindering, Mr. Eimore only hopes, as do others of Worcester, that the managers for as early a notice as possible in order to avoid the wastage which all patriots are expected to avoid, as an aid in winning the war.

By Friday each week the shows booked for Worcester the following week have been contracted for, advertised and are practically ready to go on.

METAL TRADES GIRLS TO HELP FIGHT EPIDEMIC

Girls of the Metal trades and employers association auxiliary have offered their services to aid in holding the epidemic in Worcester. The relief work will be done in addition to the Monday and Thursday Red Cross work meetings.

Sewing for the District nursing society, through the local board committee of Union church, will be the first aid given. Miss Elizabeth M. Tulloch, chairman, has offered the use of all equipment for sewing in the auxiliary workrooms, 44 Front street, for the extra sewing.

GEORGE H. WARD POST TO OMIT MEETING TOMORROW

George H. Ward post relief corps will omit its semi-monthly meeting, scheduled for tomorrow, in Grand Army Hall, Department president Flora S. Chapin, Worcester, also has requested that meet-
