It would say: Refer it to fish the second of the Water all spreed upon that. Leave the terms to Foch and the men who have been fighting the battles for the last four and one-half years.

If Whon would sak my advice, I would say: Refer it to Foch. It would be a pretty poor gift to those men to end the war by diplomacy; to end it by a note, just as those men who have been in working, slaving, giving up everything are nearing the end of a job well done.

We ought not to let the Germans gat back into Germany without laying down their arms; then we should go in and destroy their munition factories, lock thum in their borders and keep them there until we are certain the were again can molest the peace of the willet us have uncoditional surrender; then, if we must have talk, let us have in them.
