

28 DEATHS FROM GRIPPE IN BOSTON

Epidemic Receding at the Naval Stations

Proper Precautions by Public Would Soon Stamp It Out

HOW TO HELP CURB SPREAD OF THE GRIPPE

Keep out of crowds.
Get plenty of fresh air.
Avoid sneezers and coughers.
Spray the throat at least once a day.

Although the epidemic of grippe is still raging through Eastern Massachusetts, with here and there an increasing number of cases, public health authorities are still confident that if the public will only do its share by taking such precautions as common sense would prompt, it will be only a short time when cause for alarm will disappear.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, Sept 18—That the German retreat from the St Mihiel salient was even more precipitous than first imagined is known, following the discovery of thousands of official documents which they left at various headquarters. Also they left hundreds of thousands of blank cards, used in making official reports, and huge quantities of stationery that the Americans now find good use for.

It is evident from the records of the German Intelligence Department that the enemy is having his worries over conditions within Germany and the spread of Socialistic propaganda throughout the German armies. Authors of pamphlets, which I saw, appeal to the German soldiers to remember that as soon as the present war is over, the German Government will try to militarize labor so that it can begin preparations for the next war, which, they declare, is sure to come.

These socialistic writers make no appeal to the German soldiers to quit fighting. They ask them to be on their guard after the war in order to thwart the schemes of the men who now are wasting millions of lives and meanwhile facing disaster.

We found an official copy of an order issued by the Kaiser just after the
