ORANGIS A DIME EACH!
When Jesse James was but a lad,
So innocent and sweet,
Most everybody thought he had
A future on the street.
He started as a banker when
He finally came of age
And blowing safes became right then
A habit quite the rage!

He busted one most every night, He croaked a clerk or two, He blew 'om higher than a kite As well as "Pinks" he knew! He rode from one state to the nex He rode from one state to the head And shot his way to fame— Although the law became some vexed It missed him just the same!

And as they missed old Jesse till And as they missed old Jesse till A fliver crook name! Ford Did plug him with a leaden pill To glom the cash reward, There is no use to ask police To place within duress The zent who claims a dime apiece For oranges, I guess!

The greatest outdoor aport among amateurs is to go out and pick a lot of mushrooms, fetch 'em home, get cold feet and throw the fruit away! If you don't know mushrooms, don't pick 'em.
