U. S. NAVAL TRAINING CAMP
Seattle, Washington

October 23, 1918.

From: Medical Officer.
To: Dr. Henry Suzzalo, President, University of Washington,
Via: Commanding Officer. Seattle, Washington.

Subject: Transfer of Patients from Clarke and Lewis Halls.

1. In conformity with my agreement of yesterday, I have had all members of the Naval Unit ill with influenza removed from Clarke Hall, and will today have all such patients removed from Lewis Hall to the Naval Training Camp, where they will hereafter be cared for. This will leave fourteen beds immediately available in Lewis Hall for members of the Army Unit, or others whom you may wish to send there, and there will be an increasing number of beds available at this place due to the fact that many of the pneumonia cases are convalescent and will soon be able to return to Camp.

2. Very few new pneumonia cases are now occurring at the Camp, and it is believed that within a few days practically all of the space at Lewis Hall, together with the Doctors and Nurses now on duty there, will be available for University patients.
