Stupendous Spectacle

That the French and Germans were in a mood of war throughout the country is suggested by the news that a grand spectacle, with music and fireworks, is to be held in a French town to celebrate the anniversary of the outbreak of World War I. The event, which is expected to attract thousands of spectators, is being organized by the French government as a way to mark the centennial of the war.

In other news, there was a report that a German ship was sunk by a British submarine in the North Sea. The German government denied the report, but the British confirmed it, stating that the ship was carrying arms and ammunition for use in the war.

British Progress

Official Dispatches of Action Along the Front Line

LONDON, Nov. 1—The British official statement covering the German operations today was as follows:

"The battle is progressing successfully. British infantry and mounted troops entered the village of the enemy's right flank. The fighting was very heavy, but the German resistance is firm."

Several other reports confirmed the success of the British forces in pushing the Germans back. The British government declared that the situation was favorable for them.

Arrests

Several arrests were made in connection with the recent disturbances in London. The suspects were charged with inciting violence and破坏 the peace.

NAVAL ATTACK PLANNED

Expected Allied Sea Forces Will Go to Black Sea

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—The U.S. government has announced plans to send a strong naval force to the Black Sea to support the Allied countries in their efforts to oust the Ottoman Empire. The force will consist of several warships and will be under the command of Admiral George. The mission is expected to begin immediately.

Halloween Ghosts Are Noisiest That Ever Pestered Birmingham

A ghostly invasion of Halloween has taken place in Birmingham, Alabama. The city has been spooked by the presence of many ghosts, who are said to be causing a great deal of trouble for the residents.

The ghosts have been sighted in various parts of the city, including the downtown area and the suburbs. Some of the ghosts are reported to have caused power outages and damaged property.

The city authorities have urged the residents to be cautious and to keep an eye out for the ghosts. They have also advised the residents to turn on the lights and to keep the doors closed at night.

Flu Season

I Can't Get Enough Flu Shots

The flu season is here, and the flu shots are once again in high demand. Many people are getting vaccinated to prevent themselves from contracting the flu.

The flu shots are available at various locations, including doctors' offices, clinics, and pharmacies. It is recommended that everyone, especially those who are vulnerable to the flu, get vaccinated.

The Weather

The Weather

The forecast for today is mostly sunny with a high of 70 degrees Fahrenheit. However, there is a chance of rain later in the day, so it is recommended to carry an umbrella.

For the latest updates on the weather, please check The Weather Channel's website.