ARGUE; ARE FINED

Heated discussion of election returns is not in violation of law, provided the participant keeps his flu mask properly adjusted; but should he overlook that important matter trouble awaits him. That is the verdict of ten or twelve modified 10 each after being arrested for wearing a mask in the clerk's office. Many alibis were offered by the offenders, who maintained that they were seriously handicapped by their masks in arguments over election returns with more fluent talkers. The array of law refused to accept any excuses, contending that epidemics could not be checked through the wearing of masks for bills.

deputy clerk, Haskins, who was deeply interested in the election returns, had forgotten himself to the extent of slipping his mask into his pocket, and was thus caught at disadvantage. Being a law-abiding citizen, he started to march up the street at the order of the officer and walked two blocks before he looked back. In the meantime he had sneaked out his mask and properly adjusted it. He had also fished about in his pockets and located a ten-spot. Glancing timidly over his shoulder, Woolsey observed that he was not followed. He had been lost in the shuffle, as it were, and returned to his office in the Syndicate building congratulating himself on his narrow escape.

BOYS IN PRINCE
ENJOY TRIBUNE

How do young men at the battle fronts in Europe dare to see their home newspaper, and what pleasure they take in doing their bit to defeat the enemy, is told in a letter just received by THE TRIBUNE from Corporal J. Buntain, an Oakland boy, who is attached to B. Company, 169th Infantry, United States Expeditionary Forces. On the date of September 29, he writes: "Just read your papers dated July 15 to August 10, and they seemed to be only one day old. There are many boys from Oakland and about the bay in our company, and we were all at home reading THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE. All the boys that in our company

Honest Advertising

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to which was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Imitations are to be found in some stores and only because of the Castoria that Mr. Fletcher created. But it is not the genuine Castoria that Mr. Fletcher Honestly advertised, Honestly placed before the public, and from which he Honestly expects to receive his reward.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
