

Court Gives Reason for Denying Writ of

Adaptus Corpus

Mr. WINCHESTER recalled that such a writ was denied by Judge Smith on the grounds that the applicant had not resorted to or rather had not exhausted all his remedies by appealing to the district board where he was registered, which in this case happened to be in New York, or by an appeal to the President of the United States. At the present time Place is a soldier and is confined at Camp Jackson. In his application for a writ he stated that he had been wrongly classified. He is an alien citizen of Russia and admitted that no previous writ had been made by him to any court or tribunal.

"The case does not appear to be one in any respect proper for the issuance of a writ of habeas corpus. The applicant being within this district, the court has jurisdiction of his person and also of the persons detaining him, but upon a writ of habeas corpus issued to the commandant of the camp at which the applicant is detained, his return would be simply to produce the proper findings of the local and district boards of New York and as this court has no authority or power to correct the findings of these boards, it would have to dismiss the application for habeas corpus."

THANKS THE WOMEN FOR THEIR WORK

My Dear Mrs. Bennett: I want to thank you on behalf of the entire county or population for the splendid work done by the women of Charleston County in the fourth Liberty Loan drive, which has been the one in which the women have shown the most interest. In descriptions from the city of Charleston, I saw 100,000 and from the county of 150,000. In the case of the city, 100,000 is 25 percent of the total and in the case of the county about 35 percent.

I am sure that without the women of Charleston we could not have made such a call on the government in the fourth Liberty Loan and that we needed the help even more in the fourth Liberty Loan drive than we did in the second and third Liberty Loans on such a small scale. It is very evident that

These Who Took Red Cross Course Appealed To

NEED IS DESPERATE

The Red Cross is beginning to realize that its members are especially those who took the offered courses in home nursing and dietetics are not coming forward to the assistance of the public in the present epidemic. The Red Cross has lost such an epidemic in view when it offered these courses to the public, knowing that with the doctors and nurses enlisted for service the brunt of the nursing of the civilian population would depend upon the general public.

LT. H. L. STEVENS
MISSING IN ACTION

Charleston Aviator Did Not Return After Bat- tle of St. Mihiel

The last word which his family has received from Lieut. Stevens was a letter written on September 11, in which he stated that he was going into action next day. On September 12 came the American drive in the St. Michel salient and since Lieut. Stevens had been stationed in that region it is presumed that he took part in that operation in which the Germans played an especially conspicuous role. He failed to return after the close of the action on September 12, and was reported at the end of that day as missing in action.

Lieut. Stevens spent his boyhood days for the most part at his father's plantation on the Chopec river near Charleston, where he had many relatives and friends. He moved some time ago to New England where he was engaged in the cotton mill industry. He was married about a year ago. He has a host of friends who hope that good news concerning him will be received at an early date and who believe that the circumstances of the case give good ground for the theory

Citadel Commandant Will Leave Soon for

Camp Gordon

Major Moore is a graduate of the Citadel class of 1900, having been senior captain in the corps of cadets, and for the greater part of his career has been connected with that institution, where his departure will be sorely felt. During the period from his graduation to his election as assistant professor of English and history at his alma mater in 1904, Major Moore has been identified with the following educational institutions: Georgia Military Institute, Furman Fitting School, University School of New Orleans, and Greenwood High School. At the present time he was occupying the position of professor of history and political science at the

His many friends are congratulating him upon his appointment and wishing him much success in the army, where his career will be followed with a great deal of interest.

NURSES ARE NEEDED
BY RED CROSS HERE

BUSINESS NOTICES

Old Gold and Old Silver Bought and Sold
James Allan & Company.

FUNERALS

COOGAN—The Relatives and Friends of Mr. and Mrs. JOHN LYNAS COOGAN are respectfully invited to attend the Funeral Services of the former at St. Laurence Cemetery, this Wednesday morning, October 16, 1918, at 1 o'clock. Residence, No. 321 President street.

The soft hat you need every day. Here in all correct shapes and shades.

You may select from Stetson's, VANITY, (for which we have the Charleston agency) or the famous Borsalinis imported from Italy.

In either case, you are quite sure of getting a good hat.

The derby is necessary for more formal occasions and Sundays. With the flexible brim which means comfort, we show the blocks and proportions, to please each individual taste.

Caps, too, in good assortment, for men and boys.

King Street at Hasel
And 83 Hasel Street

